

Detoxifying Your Home

Sarah Smalley, www.autismpuzzlemom.com, will be teaching us about this important topic.

Toxins are anything that creates stress on the body because they are challenging for the body to excrete. Unfortunately, we have not evolved as human beings fast enough with all the toxins we are now putting into our environment.

This is particularly true for children, and more true for children suffering from autism and other delays.

Research indicates that environmental toxins are contributing to the rise in autism and other developmental delays. Join us to learn how you can detoxify your home...you'll be astonished at the toxins we bring into our homes every day. From cleaning products & bath products & sunscreens & pajamas & crock pots...we have created a toxic environment in the very place we live and breathe and sleep. Come learn how you can do something about it.

Meeting will be held at Pediatric Therapy Partners Clinic
